“Speech of Secretary”

In our society father is the principal of house so women's are always discarded chaps especially, the children who have no parents and those who are orphan children's has to live with their uncle, aunty, cousin and with other relatives and suffering difficult life for their self-poor class, orphan children's have to seen dream for wearing clothes and good food for eating question of their education is impossible. For the preservation and maintenance of those orphan children it is my humble appeal to the guardian that given them love and affection like your children and become helpful for their growth he cannot feel that he is orphan considering this news treat with him given self-confidence so that they are living in the society with great Honor. Instead of child labor given them good education and make them educated also given good education to the girls village women's are very illiterate. The main cause and reason of our poverty end degradation is illiteracy of women's. The women's tease who are illiterate the development of society cannot be increased our it stopped given education to the daughter; she will increase your participation in the society. She will make their bright two types women's must be educated and the percentage must be 100 @ given educate sent them in boarding outside area, if possible provide higher education to them to make society a revolution. There is no alternative except education. The reason of our backwardness poverty dishonestly is negligence toward the women's. "one educated mother fulfills needs of 100 teachers" Bering the inequality between son and daughter quit the belief that daughters cannot do this work. She cannot go outside etc.

Stopped the women's veil some illiterate and lower persons given advice to the women for veil society which has developed have release veil system some bad customs calculation this women's veil system came on its stage parents also advise their daughter to so quite these type of bad customs with courage break the old systems every works taking decision make women's co-partners in the work without women's awareness society cannot be improve and the factors against the society in this factors. The most important factor is women's illiteracy and disbeavience men and women's are the wheel of one gadi (vehicles both of them if any wheel will be hard or soft it cannot be run so male female both should be educated got marriage at the proper age quit large expenses in the marriage decided to joined in collective marriage (group) stopped child marriage arrange marriage at the proper age.

Ration Distribution

Our organization distribute every year Ration in our area distribute ration kit programs provide essential groceries to individuals and families in need, often during times of crisis or hardship. These kits typically include staple food items like rice, lentils, and cooking oil, along with hygiene products such as soap. Such initiatives aim to address food insecurity and promote well-being among vulnerable populations, including daily wage earners, low-income households, and those affected by natural disasters or economic hardship. At Help The Happiness Foundation, we understand the importance of access to nutritious food for overall well-being. Through our Food Kit Distribution program, we aim to alleviate food insecurity by providing essential food supplies to those in need. With strategic partnerships and community outreach, we ensure that individuals and families have access to nutritious meals, promoting health and dignity for all. Join us in our mission to nourish lives and make a positive impact in our communities. To tackle this crisis, our Monthly Ration Kit Campaign distributes 100 dry ration kits every month, ensuring that families receive the food they need to survive. Each ration kit donation supports a family for an entire month, providing stability, dignity, and hope.

Food Distribution

Our organization distribute every year food to During this period of lockdown the informal worker who basically manages meeting family's survival needs by earning through daily wage work, are facing severe crisis. MANOBIK RANAGHAT plans to provide dry ration kits to 10000 such workers' families in the coverage area to meet their immediate food needs.

Winter Clothes Distribution

MANOBIK RANAGHAT, a city-based NGO, distributed blankets and woolens among poor and shelter less persons and needy at the Railway Station road, and different parts of the city, here on Sunday.

“With the night temperature dipping low and dense fog engulfing the city, the homeless and the destitute on the streets and roadside have just plastic sheets to save themselves from cold. The blanket donation is just to help the poor in distress”, said Mr. Subash Nath, an entrepreneur and founder member of the NGO. “Cold waves have already claimed many lives in the past days and are affecting many sleeping out on the streets and footpaths, such as rickshaw-pullers and beggars. We are urging people to come forward to donate warm clothes, bed sheets and quilts,” she added. Winter clothes distribution programs are crucial for providing warmth and protection to vulnerable populations during the colder months. These initiatives, often organized by NGOs and community groups, involve collecting and distributing items like blankets, sweaters, and other warm clothing to those in need, such as the homeless, impoverished families, and marginalized communities. Such programs not only address immediate needs but also contribute to the overall well-being and resilience of individuals facing harsh winter conditions.

Grocery Distribution

MANOBIK RANAGHAT, a city-based NGO, distributed Grocery material in the process of moving food products from producers to consumers, involving various players and steps like transportation, storage, and delivery to grocery stores. It's a crucial part of the food supply chain, ensuring products reach stores on time and in good condition. Grocery distribution is complex with many players that produce, manufacture, transport, distribute, market, and sell every type of food product imaginable. By the time a product is placed on a grocery store shelf, it has traveled countless miles and has been handled by many people. Making sure the right product gets to right store at peak freshness required technology along the whole supply chain. Data logic technology delivers solutions for automated and manual data collection for grocery distribution. Distribution is an essential part of the food supply chain in the India. The majority of grocery stores partner with some of the biggest broadline food distributors. However, large grocery chains also develop their own distribution network. This allows them to do in-house product sourcing and partner directly with manufacturers. In fact, the largest brands also use private labeling services offered by big manufacturers. If you're interested, check out our posts on Walmart's private label and Target's private label brands. This allows large retailers to skip grocery store distribution companies and increase their profit margins. However, smaller grocery stores rarely can allocate the large capital and resources needed to develop a full-scale product distribution network. As such, they often rely on grocery store distribution companies. In this post, we'll share more about the operation of these broadline distributors and what are some of the top suppliers that specialize in distribution to grocery stores.

Ananda utsab

Our organization celebrate every year Ananda Utsab in West Bengal. Events may come and events may go, the Ananda Utsav passes, quickly in a flow. The Masters presence is the cherry on the cake, she imparts knowledge that we gleefully take. Ananda Utsav as the name suggests, is a three day retreat where we want to nest. To experience bliss is the intention we map, only to know that is all we really have. Ananda is my nature Ananda is who I am, know this for sure and with the Master you can. Durga Puja is all about the Goddess and Ananda Utsav Durga Puja, West Bengal all-women Durga Puja, is all set to celebrate this in a special way. With nostalgia as the main Pujo theme 'Purano shei diner kotha', it has created series of initiatives to connect with ones roots or childhood. The puja is in its 6th year and will recreate the magic of Bengal in Trento Lawns, Nadia West Bengal. Ananda Utsav, as it is rightly called is not just a retreat but a grand celebration with the master – a celebration of knowing, transcending and evolving. It encapsulates the practical ways to make body disease-free, keep mind stress-free and illumine intellect with higher wisdom, with the variegating festive celebrations as the best excuse to learn while also brimming with joy and hands wide open.
